

american occupational health conference

about aohc This year will mark the 95th American Occupational Health Conference and we are proud to continue offering a breadth of programs of the highest quality for occupational professionals. The goal of the conference is to educate and update the occupational health and safety professionals who are responsible for the prevention and management of injuries, illnesses and disabilities; and the promotion of health and productivity of workers.

who attends The attendees at AOHC are responsible for the health, wellness, and the safety of their organizations. The occupational health and safety professionals who attend AOHC make the buying decisions for a broad spectrum of products, services, equipment and supplies for their domestic and global companies.

why exhibit During the conference, attendees have ample opportunity to visit your exhibit to learn about your products and services; assuring you an excellent return on your investment in deciding to exhibit. Exhibitors have the opportunity to reach the buyers who are responsible for the health and safety of more than 291 million American workers, and can take advantage of the one-on-one networking opportunities with more than 1100 physicians and other senior occupational health professionals who attend each year.

In addition to an excellent educational program, exhibitors at the AOHC Conference are able to:

- Showcase your latest products/services for the medical profession
- Engage decision-makers who are responsible for the occupational health and safety of their employees
- Interact with more than 1100 attendees who are potential customers
- Network with peers and professionals in your industry

products and services AOHC attendees have the need and budgets to buy a broad spectrum of products and services. If your company is in any of these industries, your return on your investment as an exhibitor at AOHC will be easy to measure. The following is an example of the products and services attendees are looking for to improve the health and safety of their workers.
